Ten House Loans Total $4,300 in Nevada City

The Bank of America in Nevada City has already granted $4300 in ten loans, averaging $430 per loan The average throughout the country is $400 per loan.

Study of the loans already out in other communities show that they come to about $10 per person, at this rate it would be expected that there would be $20,000 in Federal Home Loans in Nevada City.

The executive committee of the Federal Better Housing Plan for Nevada City under the direction of Mr. F. F. Cassidy county chairman have been formulating plans for the big drive which begins October 25. The general plan of Chairman Cassidy and his executive committee, which consists of Mr. J. F. O'Conner, vice chairman, Mr. John O'Neil, Mr. John Fortier, Mr. C. M. Brown, Mrs. Lily P. Leete and Mrs. Florence Kjorlie is to inform all the people, through various channels of publicity of the opportunity to take advantage of the government loans to improve property, not only to the advantage of the property owner, but to the wor[illegible] who will be employed in the [illegible]unity. Every improvement made puts men to work here.

The Federal loan is available to every property owner with clear title to property even though there may be a mortgage on the property, if said mortgage is not delinquent.

One of the purposes of the local committee is to make these fact clear to the people of this city. Mr. Cassidy and committee have planned to do this through various mediums. The perhaps most effective one is the plan to have informed speakers talk to groups, at the movies, clubs and all organizations. The publicity committee chosen by Mr. Cassidy is: Mr. F. F. Conner, vice chairman; Mr. John O'Neil and Mrs. Lily Leete the newspapers; Mr. William Tamblyn. Theater; Mrs. Florence Kjorlie, high school; Mrs. Mary Warnecke, grammar school; Mr. Donald Stranberg, open house practical demonstration of Federal Home Loan Improvements; Mrs. Belle Douglas, Woman's Club, Rev Father P. J. O'Reilly, Rev. H. H. Buckner, and Rev. Charles Washburn, churches.

E. H. ARMSTRONG BACKS HAIGHT

E. H. Armstrong, veteran attorney of Nevada county, announces his endorsement of Raymond L. Haight's candidacy for governor.

Mr. Armstrong was formerly district attorney of this county and is now city attorney of Grass Valley. He has backed every Progressive movement in Nevada county for the past thirty years. He was the leader of supporters for Hiram Johnson here in 1930.

Armstrong says:

It should not be an effort for any Progressive Republican to endorse Raymond Haight's candidacy for governor.

Merriam's reactionary record should prevent any Progressive, be he Republican or Democrat, from supporting him. Sinclair's EPIC program is so visionary, so far fetched and so un-American that it is unthinkable that any person who has the interest of the state at heart could support him.

Raymond Haight is a Californian, native born. He has the true interest of the state at heart, is honest, courageous and progressive.

All true Californians who believe in their state and believe in progression should not be discouraged by the talk that is being sent to every voter that if we vote for Haight we are throwing our vote away. That is as much as to say that we must vote for some man that we do not have confidence in and turn down a man like Haight that we can trust.

No one with a conscience can use the only privlege that he has as an American citizen, and that is his privilege of voting, and know that he has betrayed himself and his conscience by being with the winning side. All that is necessary to elect Haight governor is for the Progressives to get behind him.

I take pleasure in giving Raymond Haight my undivided support.

SINCLAIR FIAT CHALLENGED BY REV. WASHBURN

Resume of a sermon preached in Trinity church, Nevada City, and in Emmanuel church, Grass Valley on Sunday, oCtorber 21, 1934, by Rev. Chas. F. Washburn, Rector Episcopal church.

TEXT 1—Peter L-13—"Gird up the loins of your mind."

It is not my practice, nor that of the Episcopal church in general to bring into the pulpit anything of a political nature. In my humble attempt upon this occasion to combat the attact of Upton Sinclair on the Christian Churches, in his book, "The Profits of Religion," I am not deviating one iota from our custom. I think it my duty as a Chrisitian minister to take up the gaunlet in behalf of the church, I represent. I do not advise anyone how to vote. I am not versed on political subjects. I think you, my hearers, are as capable as I to judge the politicsl issues. I do, however, advise you to follow the advice given in my text. "Gird up the loins of your mind," in other words do some real thinking.

Surely people, Christian people, all over California will think twice before they swallow the exaggerated statements contained in the book referred to.

Mr Sinclair declares that "There are scores of hundreds of sects, each damning the other, and each is a mightier fortress of graft."

A score denotes the number twenty; one score of hundreds would be 2,000 sects, while scores of hundreds might be tens of thousands—a manifest colossal exaggeration, "each damming the other." I leave it to my hearers to pass judgment on that assertaion. The truth is, that for the past twenty or thirty years, a growing tendency toward brotherly tolerance and understanding among all Christian ministers and Christian peaple. There are more "union" services held today in more communities that never before. Those unwilling to cooperate at such gatherings are looked upon as backward, prejudiced and narrow. The churches are working in harmony and certainly are not "Damming each other."

"Each is a mighty fortress of graft," who is this indictment intended for- Church vestries, or boards of directors, or perhaps church treasurers or collectors of the all too meager monthly dues?

I have never found at the annual church meetings when the accounts are openly read, any church treasurer or collector accused of grafting. Perhaps his venomous shaft is directed at the clergy. How does the clergyman graft? He does not handle the collections, so he cannot graft there. Perhaps he charges enormous wedding or baptismal or funeral fees. The fact is, there is no fee charged. Proud parents at a baptism often present the minister with a small remuneration, but he never asks it. Generally he is paid five dollars, occasionally more at a wedding, by a proud young couple starting out in life. He is handed five or ten dollars for performing what is conceded to be the most difficult service, the funeral service—but he does not ask for it.

On page 49 of his book Sinclair says. "The church is a sepulchre of corruption."

I presume he must refer to some of th echurch practices. Possibly he thinks baptism is a corrupt practice. I wonder if you parents saw anything corrupt when you brought your innocent children to be baptised into the fellowship of Christ—or did it strike you as a corrupt practice when the Bishop laid his hands upon the heads of your grown girls and boys in the service of con-his level best to say a word of comof your choice to the alta- did you think of it as a corrupt practice? No, you thought, and still think of it as "An honorable estate, and institution of God."—or, did you detect anything corrupt when you laid away that loved one and heard the service read and your minister doing his level best to say a word of comfort to you in your bitterest hour of breavement. The church undoubtedly has its faults, but the man is not sane who proclaims it a "Sepulchre of corruption."

His reference on page 97 to Jesus Christ as a "proletarian rebel" I will not dignify by any word of comment.

On page 294 he protrays the Christian religion as the "Servant and henchman of 'Big Business." I have served for twenty-seven years as a clergyman in the church. In that time, thank God, I have enjoyed the support, financial and otherwise of many of social and industrial prominence, yet never once has anyone tried to dictate to me as to my stand on any question. They always supposed my stand would be along the lines of the teachings of Christ and this church. No man has suggested that I speak on behalf of any political candidate at any time. The church is not a servant of Big Business. It stands as it always has stood, for human rights—for better homes, highest possible wages, better working conditions and has argued and pleaded against greed and graft and unduly high profits. It has urged the adoption of the golden rule by all lines of business. "What shall it profit a man if he gain the whole world and lose his soul," has been a veritable watchword of the church teachings everywhere.

Sinclaire on page 282 declares the Christian church has been "The chief of the enemies of social progress." The church has always taught humility and meekness in social contacts. It has tried to induce men to introduce social justice and love toward all churchmen. In centuries gone by, men have sacrificed their lives to preserve the bible to the human race. Without such loyalty and sacrifice the Bible would be extinct and it is from this same Bible, handed down to us through the church that the teaching has come which has inspired in men the philantropher and charitable impulses which have prompet community chest drives and impelled men to band themselves together in lodges and fraternal organizations and service clubs for the amelioration of social conditions. There would not be a hospital nor a Red Cross Society in this world today but for the teaching of Sinclair's "Proletarian Rebel."—which teaching comes from the Bible, and the church, as the repository of that book, has preserved it, and has brought it down for our use. The working man and the man out of work today, owes much to the Bible and to the church. Certainly, he must not be allowed to read, without challenge, this wild claim of Upton Sinclair that the church has been and is the "enemy of social progress."

The "Profits of Religion" with its unparalleled effrontery to the intelligence and the religious instincts of mankind is a very difficult book just now to procure, due to the herculean efforts of it's author to withdraw it from the bookshelves of the state of California. The request made yesterday by Los Angeles for Federal troops on election day tells the story of a veritable uprising of the people of that section of this fair state against this Atheistic exponent of Russian ani-religious doctrine.

Yes, my friends, it is very important just now that we a "Gird up the loins of our minds."

SHACK BECOMES LIVABLE HOME IN QUICK TIME

How banker and builder can cooperate to make a home stand where a shack stood before is demonstrated by E. M. Rector, vice president and manager of the Nevada City branch of Bank of America, and Donald de T. Stranberg, local real-estate man.

Three years ago Strandberg acquired a piece of local property on which stood a relic of a house built some fifty years ago and in the last stages of disrepair.

Lacking plumbing, paint, and electric fixtures, it was to be torn down until the Federal Housing Program was announced.

Realizing the possibility of converting a liability into an asset, Strandberg applied to Bank of America for a modernization loan. Prompt acttion by Rector resulted in a loan to renovale the house completely. The result, accomplished within a month, was a modern home, ready for occupancy.

Work was begun on the premises August 29, and completed September 29. Total cost of the job was $350, of which $105 went for labor, $15 for electric wiring and fixtures, $100 for lumber, paint and other materials and $130 for plumbing materials and fixtures.

The former shanty has been magically transformed into a completely equipped dwelling, with a new 28 foot porch; a new kitchen, 12 by 14 feeet, including sink and wash tray, hot water boiler and gas heater; a breakfast room; hall and a modern bathroom.

The modernized sections of the house include new studding and floors. The inside walls are finished sheetrock painted oyster white and with baseboards and trim of cardinal red. Electric wiring included floor plugs and fixtures.

The house will be entered in a national contest for the best example of home modernization.

INFRACTION OF LIQUOR LAW FIFTY DOLLARS

John H. Decker, who was arrested in the Coffee Cup a few days ago for an alleged infraction of the liquor law, was brought into court this morning and fined $50.

Decker stated in court that he was working for Haddy. He paid Haddy for the liquor and put the money in the cash drawer and rung the sale up. The bottle was a refill.

Judge Coughlan fined him $50 or 25 days in the city jail. He instructed Decker that due to the fact he had come forward in an honest manner and plead guilty, and was employed in the place of business he assessed such a light fine, otherwise it would have been many more times that amount and a jail sentence besides. The judge stated he believed in protecting those who are conducting business legitimately and correcting cases where it is otherwise. Decker paid the fine.

Mr. Haight was able to spend only a few minutes in Nevada City.

SKEET SHOOT CALLED OFF ON ACCOUNT OF STORM

The Indian Summer Skeet Shoot, which was to be held yesterday, had to be called on account of rain. The skeet grounds at the Richards ranch were practically a mud hole. However, a large crowd gathered at the clubhouse of the Grass Valley Rifle, Rod, and Gun Club, where they enjoyed a delicious buck stew, donated by Sheriff Carter. Skeet shooters and enthusiasts had gathered from all over the state for the shoot, and although they were disappointed at the rain they all were pleased with the savory stew.

Sinclair is over his peak as was intimated sometime since in a Nugget editorial. The talented novelist, elevated to the stump, campaigning for Epecac in California, proves to be a windbag—no menace. Confronted with solid fact, the fictionist collapses.

Already San Francisco gamblers are offering odds on Merriam. Each day that Sinclair's star declines, Haight's star rises. For if Sinclair is no longer a menace, why vote for Merriam? And Merriam is no longer gaining. The vote Sinclair is losing, the thinking, sober, citizens who are disgusted with Sinclair's vapors and the enormous abyss between Sinclair and Merriam, are turning to Haight, the California descendant of California Argonauts.

As the menace of Sinclairism wanes, the menace of Frank Merriam, hard boiled reactionary, waxes. From that, too, all sensible, progressive citizens, who desire a governor who will really lead us out of social and economic jeopardy, are swinging to Haight. The statement of E. H. Armstrong printed in another column proclaiming his allegiance to Haight, is significant. It is far more than a straw in the wind.

The fear that swayed good men and women to flee from Sinclair to Merriam, or Merriam to Sinclair, is abating.

Haight looms as the peoples choice. His common sense program, calling for reasonable aid for the unemployed, for abatement of unsurious interest rates, for tax relief, and, what is of especial interest to the mining industry, for reduction in the outrageous rate for compensation insurance, appeals to all progressive and humanitarium sentiment in California.

Haight can win if every man and woman in California will vote as his reason and conscience dictates. A vote for Haight is a vote for Haight.

The issue is now—Haight or Merriam.

BETWEEN THE LINES

By Alexander McNulty

NEW POLICIES

President Roosevelt has again made public his firm belief that a general rise in prices is vital to our economic recovery. In this regard he also makes public that at the present time the National assets may perhaps slightly exceed the National liabilities. This in simple language means that the assets of our nation—its farms, factories, railroads, in fact all the physical evidence or what we consider wealth, is mortgaged to within, for all practical purposes, what may be considered its actual value. The strange things is, that up to within a year ago and for the two or thre years previous to that time during the depth of the depression, the nation's liabilities greatly exceeded its physical assets. It was only by means of inflationary monetary methods, thereby bringing values to physical property somewhat nearer to the level at which the majority of debt was contracted that what little pleasure we may find in the fact that our assets now slightly exceed our liabilities.

While the President has not as yet announced what further reflationary methods may be used to bring about a further rise in prices; it is impossible to conceive but what some means will soon be forthcoming. The logical thing to believe of course, is that he will take advantage of his power given him by the last Congress whereby he can further reduce the gold content of the dollar. Such a move perhaps at this time is becoming necessary.

There is no question but what business and in fact the majority of people are of the belief that further reflation is necessary and are either hopeful or resigned, as the case may be, that said reflation must come through further monetary inflation.

Another cross section of opinion: To the average reader, statitstics are usually not interesting. There are however, necessary as indicators of new trend, either political, economical, or of general opinion.

A nation wide survey recently completed by the National Association of Credit Men, an organization whose membership comprises some twenty thousand industrial, banking and wholesale concerns throughout the country brings to light information as to the trend of opinion throughout the business world of an interesting character. Of primary importance is the opinion expressed as to the possibility of further inflation. The survey shows that ninety per cent of the membership is of the belief and confidently expect further inflation. In some lines business is taking steps to hedge against the expected inflation by means of increasing their inventories at present prices. By far the largest majority, are taking no steps whatsoever to hedge but expect to meet conditions as they arise.

Another significant feature of this survey which was made before the recent reorganization of the NRA., brings to light information of interest. To the question "what is the reaction to NRA in your territory," the opinion expressed was about evenly divided 50 per cent answering favorable to the other half unfavorable. Other questions, such as to whether or not members companies were satisfied under their codes; as to whether the controversial questions 7-A had aided or hindered the labor situation in their business; brought replies about equally divided, one half being favorable to the other half unfavorable.

It is surprising, judging from the vociferous criticism launched against these particular measures of the New Deal, that even so much as 50 per cent of business, polled in a nation wide survey should announce themselves as not dissatisfied.

'DAMES AND 'NOW AND FOREVER' ON NEVADA SCREEN

"Dames," Warner Bros.' newest and most spectacular musical comedy romance, comes to the Nevada Theater tonight and Tuesday, with an all star cast headed by Joan Blondell, Dick Powell and Ruby Keeler.

The picture is said to contain a number of the catchiest songs of the year which are sung by Dick Powell, Ruby Keeler, Joan Blondell and Phil Regan, radio's "singing Cop."

The story carries a definite plot which is said to be one of the most hilarious on record. Joan Blondell heads the cast in the role of a chorus girl mad cap who delights in embrasrasing dignified gentlemen, and who eventually weds a millionaire moralist.

Dick Powell and Ruby Keeler furnish most of the romance as a pair of lovers whose match is Anathema to their families. Three famous comedians, ZaSu Pitts, Guy Kibbee and Hugh Herbert, provide a large share of the comedy.

A fine acting combination, a fast-paced and imaginatively directed story, and an appealing theme, are the elements that Paramount put into the making of "Now and Forever," which will be shown Wednesday and Thursday at the Nevada Theater.

Romantic Gary Cooper, Carole Lombard and lovable Shirley Temple ar ethe three who play out this tale of a reckless young international crook, his light of love, and the child who changes the whole course of their gay lives.

In "Now and Forever," Shirley Temple strengthens her position as the new sweetheart of the motion picture public, and Gary Cooper and Carole Lombard give dramatic performances that should increase their fans by the thousands.

Some Thoughts on Maintenance That Have to Do More With Satisfaction Than Investment

Home. Poets have sung of it; orators have declaimed of it, armies have fought for it. First an ideal, then, through toil and sacrifice an actuality, the home holds for all people a sentimental attachment that few human emotions transcend.

To the average American, home has always been something more than a mere habitation, fixed and unchanged. Never has he been satisfied with just four crude walls and a roof set upon a bit of land. As his position in life improves, his habitations—his home—is likewise improved. Old homes for new has always been the rule in America.

The home is one of the major standards by which the state of a man's progress and achievement is judged by his acquaintances, his friends and his neighbors. The state in which it is kept, more often than not, denotes to a marked degree his character.

Next to the welfare of his family, a man's chief concern is for his home, and one cannot help but wonder what are the emotions of many men when they take stock of the condition of their homes today.

Throughout the land are thousands of homes not as attractive, rentable, salable or as valuable as they once were. Due to lack of normal care and attention, these once spick and span homes have a down-at-the-heel appearance.

While the result of this unwanted neglect is serious from a material standpoint, there is another equally serious phase of the matter—the dispiriting effect upon the owner and his family. To see one's home in a sad state of disrepair is most depressing—enough to weaken the morale of any man or woman. Next to the welfare of his family, a man's concern is for his home.

If every home owner in a position to secure a loan during the Better Housing Program does so and improves his property, it would, in a very material sense, be "bread cast upon the water," for it would again put upon the pay rolls hundreds of thousands of idle men and women of the building industry. More pay envelopes mean greater purchasing power and when the purchasing power of the nation is restored then we will have prosperity.
